Dear Reader

The joint Annual Meeting of SPS and ÖPG, hosted by CERN, will take place from 21 - 25 August 2017 in Geneva at CERN and at the International Conference Centre Geneva (CICG). Abstract submission (deadline 15 May) and registration (deadline 1 August) to the conference has now opened. [\[more\]](#)

The Swiss Physical Society supports the March of Science. It is important for us, as member of the Swiss Society, to show our commitment towards these scientific and ethical values as well to recall the crucial role of science for our Society. How? By joining in local March for Science, which will be organized on April 22nd in Geneva. Through this action, we shall show our solidarity with scientists all over the world, who will also march the same day to promote the same aspects of scientific life as us and to reaffirm the pivotal role of science for the development of a sustainable Earth for all of its inhabitants.
