

Travel Grant Regulations

Who can apply:

Travel support is granted to doctoral students and master students for the active participation at an international scientific conference. Applicants have to be members of a society within the SSPT that is contributing membership fees to the SCNAT (presently applies to SSP and SST), or should have submitted their membership application to one of these.

Prerequisites:

Active participation means that the candidate presents his/her work as a poster or an oral communication at the conference. The abstract for the presentation must be included in the application, together with the application form, a short CV, and the budget draft for the travel expenses. Application should be sent no later than 2 months before the start of the conference.

Amount of support:

Travel grants are provided based on the applicant's budget draft, according to the criteria for travel supports defined by the Swiss National Fonds, and are usually limited to a maximum of SFr 1000.00 per event. Higher contributions are only possible in exceptional, well-founded cases.

Decision process/information:

The decision on the applications will be taken together by the presidents of the respective societies (SSP or SST) and the president of SSPT in due time. The applicant will be directly informed about the outcome by the president of his/her society.
