

Decolonizing Swiss Research Collaborations

Conference & Workshop-Series

Demands to decolonize relationships, practices and knowledge have increased in the last years. These demands have been raised due to persisting prejudice, repression and inequalities rooted in colonial legacy, and they touch all spheres of society, including science. At this year's conference we want to discuss

- What does it mean to decolonize research collaborations?
- What is needed to decolonize Swiss research collaborations?
- What can we do to decolonize research, teaching and collaborations?

The conference consists of two parts:

- a series of interactive online workshops from April 17 - May 31
- a diverse and inspiring conference in Bern on May 5
